Welcome

To all our new students and their families this term

19 September 2019

Dear Parents, families and whānau

The end of term is almost here and we have lots to celebrate. Hopefully our day tomorrow will demonstrate the amazing learning that has been going on in the school for our students. We hope your families will all take the opportunity to visit at some stage during the day.

In my last newsletter I shared with you that I was going to Wellington for two weeks to do some work on a National panel for the Ministry of Education. During the time I was away my mum passed away. Many thanks to those who sent their condolences. I was very touched by your support.

There have been several parent concerns about the behaviour of some of our students over the last few weeks. As spring begins there are always some changes in behaviour, particularly in our year 6 students – especially those who have chosen to go on to Intermediate. This happens because they are feeling they have 'outgrown' us, they feel they can do what they like "I'm going to Intermediate anyway". Please be aware of this and the impact that this has on student behaviour. Our Year 8 students also go through a time of something similar, but because they are older their behaviour looks different. We have strong behaviour management guidelines in the school. If you would like a copy of any part of these please let me know.

A special thank you and congratulations to the Amisfield Choir, led by Carol Morris for their wonderful singing and contribution to the Tokoroa Music Festival. They were awesome!

Room 3 – Fairy Tale Writing

Room 3 have been learning to write a retelling of different fairy tales. We have learnt to complete a picture plan and to extend our ideas by adding key words. We are currently learning to include direct speech in our writing to show the different characters talking.

The Gingerbread Man

Once upon a time there was an old man and an old lady who lived in a little house with no children. They were always poor, until one day the old lady said, "Today I will make some gingerbread for dinner."

The old man said, "That is a great idea! I will work in the garden while you work on the gingerbread."

By the time the little old man went into the garden, the old lady had an idea. She would make a gingerbread man. When she put the gingerbread man in the oven the old man came in very happy.

He ran in shouting, "Look! Look! A truck is here to give us more gingerbread. More than ever before!" He yelled so loud that he almost broke the windows. He danced out the door.

The gingerbread man was cooked and ready to eat. The old lady got the gingerbread man out of the oven.

The Little Red Hen

One day, on a small farm there was a little red hen with her friends, the cow, the pig, the duck and the dog.

One day the Little Red Hen found a grain of wheat and she asked, "Who will help me plant this seed?"

She asked the cow and the cow said, "No!"

She asked the cat and the cat said, "No!"

She asked the dog and the dog said, "No!"

She asked the pig and the pig said, "No!"

She asked the duck and the duck said, "No!"

"Then I'll do it myself!" said the little red hen. When the seed was grown she wanted some help to cut it.

She asked the cow and the cow said, "No!"

She asked the cat and the cat said, "No!"

She asked the dog and the dog said, "No!"

She asked the pig and the pig said, "No!"

She asked the duck and the duck said, "No!"

"Then I'll do it myself!" said the little red hen.
